

Troublesome Translations

For native German speakers, finding the right translation, from German to English or vice versa, can sometimes be a challenge. Here are some examples to help you figure out how to say certain words. And to make sure you keep yourself out of trouble.

Big or great?

It can be a big problem, mixing up big and great. But don't worry – help is at hand.

As adjectives, big refers to something large, for example, 'Elephants are big animals.'

Meanwhile, great describes something very large in either size, extent, importance, or number, such as: 'A great decision made by a great man.' You can also use great as a positive interjection, expressing happiness. And that's great!

1. We all considered the party to be a _____ success. (Wir haben die Party alle als großen Erfolg betrachtet.)
2. She was only two years old, but she was _____ for her age. (Sie war erst zwei Jahre alt, aber sie war groß für ihr Alter.)
3. Anna reassured me that it was no _____ deal. (Anna beruhigte mich, dass es keine große Sache war.)
4. Thanks for helping out today. You're doing a _____ job! (Danke, dass Du heute mithilfst. Du machst einen tollen Job!)

High or tall?

Don't confuse high with tall.

We use the adjective high for objects that are a long way above the ground. For example, 'There are some high mountains in the north of the country.'

We don't use high when we talk about people. We use tall instead. For example, 'Tall people often get backache.'

1. The light switch is too _____ for a child to use. (Der Lichtschalter ist zu hoch für ein Kind.)
2. Sally is very _____ and slim – she could get a job as a model! (Sally ist sehr groß und schlank – sie könnte einen Job als Model bekommen!)
3. You know that very _____, white building just where the motorway begins – that's where I work. (Sie kennen das sehr hohe, weiße Gebäude genau dort, wo die Autobahn beginnt – dort arbeite ich.)
4. We climbed the _____ mountain in the country in just under six hours. That's quite a feat! (Wir haben in knapp sechs Stunden den höchsten Berg des Landes bestiegen. Das ist eine ziemliche Leistung!)
